THE VISITATIONS.

"The Visitations were in the nature of assize and fines, and penalties were enacted against those who failed to come in.

Each county was visited several times and in consequence a pretty complete list was obtained by all Arms, then in use, to which any right could be shown and no Arms were to be admitted which were not allowed at such Visitations.

Arms had, of course, been granted in due form before this but the registration of such being found incomplete, these Visitations were enacted.

From the date of these Visitations, all Arms duly granted have been registered.

(Extract, letter from G. Woods Wallaston, Esq.

Bluemantle, Herald College, Somerset House, London, Eng.)

Quoted from Howland Delano Perrine, A.B., LL.B.

Compiler of "Wrights of Oyster Bay, Long Island"

Coat Armour represented the badge of a family. All members of that family were permitted legally to the display and use of same, while the Crest, or Cognizance, was generally used as an individual badge and was of various forms among the different branches, or groups of such family. When the Arms were used or displayed by Junior, or other members of such family, besides the recognized head, thereof, a distinction was added by the impaling on the shield of the Coat of Armour various accepted symbols to designate whether the bearer was a first, second, or younger son.

These symbols were known as "differences" or marks of Cadency.

Crests, or Cognizances, came into use at a very early period but, about the twelfth or thirteenth Centuries their adoption appears to have become general.

SETTLEMENT OF HEMPSTEAD, LONG ISLAND, NEW YORK.

Hempstead Town Records, Volume I.

The actual settlement of Hempstead by Europeans was made on a tract of land which JOHN CARMAN and REV. ROBERT FORDHAM, acting for their associates at Stamford, Connecticut, purchased Indian Title to, Nov. 16th. 1644 and procured a Patent for same from William Keife, the Dutch Governor of New Neitherland.

NOTES.

The land was originally occupied by three tribes of Indians.

The Rockaways - Merokes and Matinecocks.

Thirty or forty families came from Stamford, Conn. to the new settlement, among whom were REV. RICHARD DENTON, William Raynor, Richard Gildersleeve, John, Robert and Benjamin Coe - JOHN CARMAN - ROBERT FORDHAM - Robert Jackson - Simon Searing and John Ellison.

Most of these families came originally from Massachusetts Colony via. Wethersfield, Conn. having come to America with the band called "The Puritans" 1630.

The purchase of this tract of land was confirmed to seven families of Englishmen, four of whom were from Hemel, Hempstead, Hertfordshire, ~~En~~ England and the settlement was named "Hempstead".

These settlers were joined by John Hicks and DANIEL WHITEHEAD of Flushing and subsequently by other English settlers from East and West ends of the Island. CAPT. JOHN SEAMAN, coming from Eastern end of the Island, had settled on land adjoining what was subsequently the Eastern boundary of the Hempstead Purchase and had secured title to a tract of land comprising more than twelve thousand acres which in 1685, under Dougan Patent became part of Hempstead.

The first division of land recorded in Hempstead, took place 1647 and from this, it appears that, at the time, there were sixty-two Freeholders in the town. Each person was allotted land in proportion to the money he had contributed to the public funds.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. It begins with the first settlers, who came to the Americas in search of a new life. They found a land of opportunity, but also a land of challenge. The early years were marked by struggle and hardship, but the spirit of the pioneers was unyielding. They built a nation from scratch, one that was based on the principles of freedom and democracy. Over time, the United States grew into a powerful nation, one that played a leading role in the world. The story of the United States is a story of the human spirit, of the power of the individual, and of the strength of the nation.

The United States has a rich and diverse history. It is a land of many cultures, many languages, and many traditions. The people of the United States have made many contributions to the world, and their story is one that is worth telling. The history of the United States is a story of the human spirit, of the power of the individual, and of the strength of the nation.

The United States has a long and proud history. It is a land of many achievements, many successes, and many failures. The people of the United States have made many contributions to the world, and their story is one that is worth telling. The history of the United States is a story of the human spirit, of the power of the individual, and of the strength of the nation.

The United States has a bright future. It is a land of many opportunities, many challenges, and many dreams. The people of the United States have made many contributions to the world, and their story is one that is worth telling. The history of the United States is a story of the human spirit, of the power of the individual, and of the strength of the nation.

The plots varied in size from ten to two hundred acres.

Elizabeth, New Jersey.

It is well to here mention the settlement of Elizabethtown, N.J. as it was a Patent granted to Long Island group of men and settled by Long Island Families.

Purchase of land from the Indians of where Elizabethtown was founded was made by John Bailey - DANIEL DENTON and Luke Watson of Jamaica Long Island. Patent granted to Capt. John Baker, who acted as interpreter, John Ogden from Easthampton and Southampton, John Bailey and Luke Watson of Jamaica and "their associates" by Governor Nicholls, confirming in deed dated, Dec. 1st. 1664.

John Ogden of Easthampton bought out DANIEL DENTON of Jamaica.

Elizabeth was named in honor of Elizabeth, wife of the first Sir George Carteret, an uncle of Governor Philip Carteret. Governor Phillip Carteret married Elizabeth (Smith) Lawrence of Long Island. She was daughter of Richard Smith and widow of Capt. John Lawrence. She married, as a second wife, Capt. William Lawrence, March 4th. 1664. Capt. Lawrence, who was born St. Albans, Hertfordshire, England, 1623 came to America, 1635. He, with his brother John Lawrence and sixteen others, were Patentees of Flushing, L.I. He became the largest landed proprietor. His estate was at Lawrence, Long Island which stills bears his name. Here he died intestate, 1680, leaving seven children.

After Capt. William Lawrence's death, his widow, married Sir Phillip Carteret, Governor of New Jersey.

The daughter of Capt. William Lawrence by his first wife (name not known) was Elizabeth Lawrence who married, 1672 Thomas Stevenson, uncle of Abigail Stevenson who married, as her first husband, Daniel Denton of this record.

THE HISTORY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON FROM 1630 TO 1800

The city of Boston, founded in 1630, has a rich and varied history. It was the first permanent English settlement in New England, and its growth was rapid. By 1700, it was one of the largest and most important cities in the colonies. Its location on a natural harbor made it a center of trade and commerce. The city was also a center of education and culture, with the founding of Harvard University in 1636. The city's history is marked by significant events, including the Boston Tea Party in 1773, the Battle of Bunker Hill in 1775, and the Siege of Fort Mifflin in 1777. The city's architecture is a mix of old and new, with many historic buildings still standing. The city's climate is temperate, with four distinct seasons. The city's population is diverse, with people from many different backgrounds and cultures. The city's economy is strong, with a mix of industries, including manufacturing, services, and education. The city's government is a city council, elected by the citizens. The city's motto is "Ense petit placidam sub libertate quietem".

Son and heir of Sir Thomas Davison was Alexander Davison aged 30 years old, Aug. 20th. 1666

He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Dawes of Roehampton,, Surray, Knt.

They had son John Davison aged two years, Aug. 20th. 1666.

Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Davison married Robert Luton of Luton, County York, Esq.

The search has not been made in England to establish the lineal line of descent to Alexander Davison and his brother, Rev. Robert Davison who were born in Hownan, Twiotdale, Roxburghshire, England and who were settlers of North Hempstead, Long Island.

Town Records of Hempstead, Vol. IV. Pages 120-125-333-324.

Rev. Robert Davison recorded ear marks of Cattle at Hempstead, June 8th.

1751. In this record the name is spelled Davison.

Page 120. Rev. Robert Davison purchased a farm in Hempstead, Aug. 7th 1751, paying $3000. in cash. In this record the name is spelled Davidson. Evidently mis-spelled in recording.

Page 324. On Nov. 7th. 1759 Rev. Robert Davison, then in England, makes his brother Alexander Davison Power of Attorney to sell his farm.

Pages 333 & 335. Alexander Davison sells this farm to Aaron Place of Huntington. Mch. 19th. 1760

Rev. Robert Davison was of the Island of Antiqua before coming to America and there is no record found that he ever returned to America from England where he was 1759. His brother, Alexander was born in England 1698 and died in Ulster County, New York, Mch. 16th. 1764

Relatives were settled in Breston, Conn, near Norwich, at the time, and even before these brothers were of Long Island. The Davison Men of Connecticut were, several of them Sea Captains, whose vessels plied between England and America. It will be noticed that the families

In Conn. and Long Island carry the same given names, in many instances. Family tradition claims that Robert Davison, son of Rev. Robert, as a young man came to America to fight the An the cause of the Colonies. This fact, together with records obtainable, convinces me, that Rev. Robert Davison, after establishing a home on Long Island, returned to England to marry but for some reason, did not return to America after marriage. It will be noticed that in 1751 he purchased his farm in Hempstead. In 1757 his son Robert was born. 1759 he empowers his brother, Alexander to sell farm which he does in 1760.

That he still retained pleasant memories of his American home, relating same to his son, Robert. This accounts for the son's interest in American Colonies and, as a boy, nineteen years old, returned to America with his relative, the sea Captain, Thomas Davison which accounts for his enlistment in sea service at Norwich, Conn.

Robert Davison, Jr. married on Long Island and still followed his interest in navigation by owning and operating, several years, boats between New York and Albany. The Davisons of the early settlers nearly all followed the sea.

Alexander Davison, brother of Rev. Robert Davison, was born 1698 died in Ulster County (now Orange County) N.Y. Mch. 16th. 1764 and is buried in Goodwill Cemetery beside his daughter-in-law (dau. of Patrick Barber) wife of his son John.

Ross' History of Long Island.

Apr. 28th. 1755 Alexander Davison bought two male slaves, Tom & Robin, from Capt. George Everit.

St. George's Church records a marriage record of one John Davison of Nova Scotia and Rebecca Mott, Aug. 8th. 1786. He is thought to be a brother of Robert Davison, Jr. sons of Rev. Robert Davison. This John Davison went to New Brunswick and had descendants there. There were exchange of visits between this family in Canada and those on Long Island for several years.

John Davison was a Tory and fought with British.

90
He may have come with the British Troops and then remained here as he did not marry until after the Rev. War. Perhaps he did not come until after the War. There is no record to prove definitely but it is family tradition that Robert Davison, Jr. had a brother who fought on side of British.

Alexander Davison left a Will in Ulster County, N.Y. Proved Aug. 16th. 1764. Property to Widow Margaret and two sons, John and David. "If they should die, to my loving friend, David Wallis, lately living in County Angus, Scotland, Shipmaster."

I am inclined to believe that the name of the father of Alexander and Rev. Robert Davison was DAVID or John.
